IT'S A FAMILY TRADITION

Kiki Cayton Jones and her daughters, Meagan and Kelsey, like to make a habit of cruising together. We found out why.

Interview: KATE SIMON

KIKI: “My first cruise was in 1986. My mom and dad had been sailing for some years – they always took the World Cruise, particularly after they retired. My first cruise with my daughters was in 1990, joining my parents and other family. It’s a family tradition – we love it.

“Every year, during their World Cruise, my parents would ask me, my brothers and sister to pick a segment and come onboard. When my dad passed away, I would ask my daughters to come on for a couple of different segments to spend time with my mom. Meagan and Kelsey work in education, so trips are built around school schedules.”

MEAGAN: “It’s hard to fit a cruise around our work, so where we go depends on what’s available when we can all make it. We’ve been on about 12 cruises together as a family – there are six of us together on our current cruise, including Kelsey’s husband and their two young sons.

“We like being able to vacation as a family, because it’s a nice way for us all to get together; we’re not at home so we don’t have the demands or responsibility of being at home. Cruising is such an amazing way to travel because all the amenities you need are right here in one place. It’s easy.”

KELSEY: “This is the first time we have been able to travel on the ship with the boys. It’s been great to have a contained place for them to have fun and explore onboard and then to be able to go out and see incredible sights. That’s a very special gift to give our children. Also, the crew are so kind and generous to our sons. So are the passengers. Our hope is to continue to do this with the kids.”

KIKI: “When we’re onboard, we spend time together and apart. We might go on shore together but some will come back and some will stay longer. None of us mind going onshore on our own. I sometimes just need a break in my cabin to read or I go to the gym. Meagan might be having a nap or doing her scrap books. Kelsey and her husband are with the boys who love the pool.”

MEAGAN: “Usually we’ll eat most of our meals together, and then do what we want.”

KIKI: “We spend a lot of time together because that’s the point, but it’s quality time – we don’t need to be together all the time. And we try to go somewhere we haven’t been before. We’ve been to many places – New Zealand, Asia, the Baltic States... My mom and dad were big travelers. They used to tell a story about when they just got married and they went from Los Angeles to Mexico. Their parents said to them: ‘Don’t you need to buy furniture?’ But my mum and dad just said: ‘We can always buy furniture, we’re going to Mexico now.’

“Our next cruise will be in 2026 and only on Crystal. I’ve been on six or seven other cruise lines and even though some are very nice, they just aren’t the same. There’s something about Crystal – especially the fact that 80% of the staff came back. You go onboard and they remember you, they remember your drink, they knew my parents. So it’s really hard to walk away from that, it’s just special. These people are like family to us.”
